

YELLOW FEVER.

HISTORICAL FACTS CONNECTED WITH ITS SOURCE.

Personal Experiences and Suggestions—Duties of California Authorities.

(Written by A. T. Hawley for the RECORD-UNION.)

NUMBER 1.

The RECORD-UNION a few months ago did me the honor to reproduce one of my editorial articles from my pen [the subject of the Yellow Fever, W. T. T.] upon the subject of yellow fever, and what to me, at that time, seemed the imminent danger of the importation of that dread scourge in the State of California. Fortunately my fears in that regard were not realized in the summer and fall of 1883; but I am none the less persuaded that prudence and humanity demand of the civil authorities of California, both State and municipal, a rigid application of all the means and appliances at their command, with a view to the prevention of the possible importation of the disease during the coming season, and the isolation of any sporadic case which may—and in my opinion such cases will present themselves—occur as the result of the germination of these seeds of the pestilence, which, with inconceivably fatuous criminality, the health officers of San Francisco permitted in the latter part of November last to be brought into San Francisco, in the shape of two stricken seamen from a vessel coming from an infected port, and in the further, and none the less dangerous, shape of clothing and seamen's bedding transferred from the same ship to the city, no means healthy portion of the city which constitutes the rendezvous of seafaring men when "on shore."

I undertake a painful task in preparing this article for the RECORD-UNION; painful, because it leads me to speak of pestilence, which, with inconceivably fatuous criminality, the health officers of San Francisco permitted in the latter part of November last to be brought into San Francisco, in the shape of two stricken seamen from a vessel coming from an infected port, and in the further, and none the less dangerous, shape of clothing and seamen's bedding transferred from the same ship to the city, no means healthy portion of the city which constitutes the rendezvous of seafaring men when "on shore."

LATE PUBLICATIONS.

WINCHELL'S WORLD-LIFE, OR COMPARATIVE GEOLOGY.

A Little Pilgrim—Where Did Life Begin—Life of Luther—Recent Magazines—Etc.

In "World-Life, or Comparative Geology," Professor Alex. Winchell, LL. D., of the Paleontological chair of the University of Michigan, has given us a thoughtful view of the processes of world formation, world growth and world decadence. The object of the author, and which has been fully attained, is to present a simple, yet complete and connected account of the world, and the system of material things to which we belong; to offer the reader a portrayal of the grand system of the universe, and impress him profoundly with the omnipresence and supremacy of One Intelligence; to instruct the earnest student of nature, young or old, into the vestibule of celestial mechanics, and leave him with an inspiration which shall carry him on to the pursuit of higher methods of physical investigation, and lastly, to clear up the most serious difficulties encountered by belief in the nebular origin of our planetary system. The work is fully illustrated and very handsomely printed. It is from the press of C. S. Griggs & Co., Chicago, and is for sale by C. S. Houghton, Sacramento, at $2.50.

"Where Did Life Begin?" is a brief inquiry by H. H. Hutton, a writer on the probable place of beginning, and the natural course of the flora and fauna of the earth. It is from the press of Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, and is a very attractive monograph, brief, and without any display of style. Mr. Scribner has for a long time been thinking and reading and reasoning upon the topic that entitles his modest volume. At last his ideas have begun to crystallize into conclusions. Expressing these to friends with the firmness of conviction, he was urged to reduce his views to writing, and hence this compact book of but 64 pages. He attributes to the theory of the origin of life one time an intensely hot globe, destitute of organic life. Gradual reduction of temperature has followed ever since. The frigid zones first became cool enough to maintain life, as we now know it. Life received less heat from the sun and had less matter to cool, and hence the climatic differences we now have. The polar regions, of course, then passed through all the grades of temperature, from the torrid to the frigid. The tropics, on the other hand, were very interesting speculations as to the flora and fauna of the hemispheres. It must suffice to say that in the polar regions, studded with white pinnated mountains in the center of departed ages, he sees the beginning of the end.

"Jesus, the World's Savior," is a work (12 mo., cloth, $1.50) by George C. Lorimer, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, Chicago. It is from the press of C. S. Griggs & Co., Chicago, and is for sale by C. S. Houghton, Sacramento. What the author says of it sufficiently introduces the volume, which is outspoken, and doctrinally, strictly orthodox. Dr. Lorimer says: "This unpretending book goes forth with the earnest desire that it may strengthen religious faith, stimulate effort in right directions, and influence the lives of many. It does not claim to be either critical or doctrinal, but rather spiritual and practical. The author has endeavored to present the views of Strauss and Renan on the great theme he has treated, neither as a formal hypothesis, nor as a dogma, but as a subject for serious thought. He has endeavored to present a series of pictures of the Nazarene, and to show the various aspects of his earthly ministry as they may be seen from the needs of the generation."

Among the special publications recently issued by F. M. Lyon, publisher, 27 Park Place, New York, is a small, artistic pamphlet entitled "Gems of Art and Poetry," which consists of a choice collection of poems by leading authors, with fine illustrations of the most artistic kind. A bouquet of flowers, in colors, sea life page, "The Ladies' Guide to Fancy Work," is another pamphlet by same publisher, giving directions in all kinds of fancy work, with full illustrations. The price of each is one cent. Other similar publications, at same price, are, "Fifty Complete Stories by Famous Authors," being a collection of short, interesting stories, and "The Great Empire of the East," by Low Life in New York. The latter has illustrations of the leading public buildings at the metropolis, and cuts of prominent residents.

The new series of "The Leisure Hour Library," published by F. M. Lyon, 27 Park Place, New York, is issued in semi-weekly parts, each number containing a novel complete by some prominent author. The subscription price is $4.50 per annum, in single numbers, $1.00 each. The series is a single volume, and is very attractive. The books are cut, adding much interest to the series. The advance numbers of the new series are published to 49, and carrying the single numbers to July next. The numbers have sixteen pages, quarto size. Some of the numbers are devoted to other subjects than novels, as fancy work for home adornment, Jean Ingelow's poems, Scott's poem "Lady of the Lake," etc.

"Father's Wish," Lorenzo Waugh, is a philanthropic widely known in California. His has been a life of self-denial and devotion to humanity. His chief labors have been among children, among whom he has during many years been a devoted friend. For his efforts to prevent them from contracting intemperate habits, and becoming addicted to the use of tobacco, Father Waugh has had printed his autobiography, a book of three hundred pages, devoted to the children of the country. It is freely illustrated, and the narrative style prevails throughout. Published for the author by the Pacific Press, Oakland.

The April number of the "Art Amateur," published by Montague Marks, New York, presents in its supplement, in patterns, the German alphabet of the fourteenth century; decoration for double tile or panel, for furniture panels; an embroidery design—"Passion Flower"—in screen; etc. In the brick-factory department is an interesting description, with illustrations, of objects in the Castellan collection, now being sold at Rome. Also, an interesting report of the recent sale of the Baron de Saxe's collection of eighteenth century furniture, etc., with prices obtained.

"The Wide Awake" for April opens with a pleasing story by "Aunt Polly Shedd's Brigade," written by Mrs. H. G. Rowe; a description of maple sugar-making, followed by illustrations. "The Soap-Bubble Question" is treated in two parts. "The Ants and the Grasshopper," versified from "Esop's Fables," is most humorously presented, both by line and illustration, and many other pleasing stories and pieces are given. Published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, Mass.

York, and known as "Harper's Young People," is a well-conducted and always interesting publication for young readers. It is published by the American Book Company, New York, and is sent to all ages, from little misses and masters to the higher teens. In its stories and selections of historical and geographical value is found, while in lighter reading and illustrations full scope is given to amusement and the jolly side is provided.

The April number of "Electra," published at Louisville, Ky., as "Young People's Magazine," is at hand. Volume 1 is completed with this number, and the second volume will be published next, with promise of successful and bright future. New and still better attractions for the young readers are to be presented in the coming volume. This magazine, while it is intended for the young, is almost equally attractive to the older portion of the household, so pleasantly does it occupy the borderland between youth and mature years.

"Our Little Polks and the Nursery," compiled by Mrs. J. C. Houghton, published by the American Book Company, Boston, especially for the youngest readers, is always of interest to them. The April number is a bright and happy one for this class of the home folks, and will also interest the older portion of the household, so pleasantly does it occupy the borderland between youth and mature years.

"The Magazine of Art," for April, published by Cassell & Co., N. Y., opens with "More About Algiers," giving, in description and illustrations, much of interest in that country. "Art in the Garden," by Barclay Day, presents six illustrations, with suggestions upon subjects named. "Pictures in Japan" is the title to an account of Japanese art, with numerous pieces represented. The Monthly Record of American Art, Chronicles of Art, etc., are well worth perusal.

Number 2 of the "Franklin Square Song Collection," containing 200 favorite songs and hymns, has been received from A. L. Bancroft & Co., San Francisco. This is an exceedingly choice collection of the gems of song, and is a volume which has been for a long time in the hands of the publisher. It is printed in plain type, and very clearly written music on good paper, and at its price, 50 cents, is but one-fourth of a cent per page included in the number.

"The Scriptural Idea of Man," we have a volume embracing the six lectures given by Mark Hopkins, D. D., before the theological students at Princeton on the L. P. Stone foundation. These lectures were given on eight consecutive evenings, at the request of the Princeton Theological Seminary, and are published in the "Princeton Review." Published by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, and for sale by C. S. Houghton, at $1.

"Blue and Red; or, the Discontented in the Center of the World," by Juliana Horatia Ewing, and illustrated by R. Andrieux, is the title and title page of a pictorial volume issued by E. & J. B. Young & Co., New York. It is a reprint, in verse, and highly illustrated in color, of a volume, a labor always grumbling and discontented, with a moral drawn from things and affairs human.

"The Cottage Kitchen" (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York; C. S. Houghton, Sacramento; $1) is a new volume by Maria Farland, and one of the "Cottage Series Household Series." There are several of the Harland cook books, and all stand high as authorities. The new volume is less pretentious than "Breakfast, Luncheon and Dinner," but quite as valuable.

"Workers and Idlers" is a monograph by Merritt & Dement, Chicago. It is in advocacy of the abolition of interest and rent, and the condemnation of railway property, and a general assumption of all responsibilities by the State, with a view of bringing on that millennium period when there shall be none rich, none idle, none poor, no mortgages, no "tax sharks," etc.

"A Little Pilgrim" is a reprint by Roberts Bros., Boston, from "Macmillan's Magazine," and is a volume of devotional verse, and is of one who, after long suffering, passed into the other life. In fancy we are led through the beauties of the world beyond, and the effort is made—most charmingly, with full illustration—to open to us something of the life hereafter.

The "Pacific Medical and Surgical Journal," published at San Francisco, has in its March number interesting articles upon "Diseases of Modern Civilization," by Dr. J. H. W. Watson, M. D.; "Use of the Application of Electricity," by Albert Abrams, M. D., and a large number of reported cases, etc., of special interest to the medical profession.

From C. S. Houghton, Sacramento, we send a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a great sufferer. Commencing with a dose of five pills, I found relief, and obtained prompt relief. In continuing their use, a single pill taken after dinner, daily, has been all the medicine I have required. My system is regular, and I feel better than I have for many years. Every person suffering with indigestion, constipation, or headache, should try AYER'S PILLS.

For all diseases of the stomach and bowels, try AYER'S PILLS. PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists.

ONE OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS TESTIFIES.

I have been using Dr. J. C. Ayer's Specific in my practice for quite a long time, and I now feel that I can recommend it as a most valuable remedy. It is entirely vegetable, being composed of the purest and healthiest ingredients. I am familiar with its history from the time the formula was obtained from the Indians, and I can truly say that it is a most valuable remedy for all diseases of the stomach and bowels, and there has been no failure to cure. I have cured blood taint in with it, after I had most signally failed by the most approved method of treatment with mercury and iodine of potassium.
